SALE OF A WHOLESALE HAT STORE .- Messrs JNO. G. MILNOR & Co. will sell to-day, at the corner of Pinckney and Meeting streets, the entire stock in trade of the store formerly occupied as a wholesale hat and fancy goods establishment. The goods offered for sale consist of every variety of hats, caps, bonnets, &c. They will be sold to the highest bidder, and merchants and others interested would do well to attend.

THE YACHT ELEANOR. This time yacht was launched from the ship yard of Mr. F. M. JONES, at the east end of Calboun street, on Satirday, and was plying around the harbor yesterday afternoon, freighted with a cargo of connoisseurs who were testing her qualities in a trial trip The Eleanor attracted universal attention, from the beauty of her model and from her completeness in every respect. Mr. Jones is a thorough ship wright, and his latest production combines every improvement known in naval architecture.

AN ECLIPSE. The weather still continues to be changeable, alternating at brief periods between the warmth of a clear sanshine, and the coolness attendant upon heavy rains. We presume this disagreeable state of things will exist until Friday next, the 13th, upon the evening of which day an o'clock, and end at 36 minutes past 8 o'clock

To KEEP MILE SWEET. - A Mr. BOYD, a correspondent of the Scientific American, states that he has practiced a peculiar method, with much success, of preserving sweet milk in the ast. It simply consists in placing a piece o new hammered iron, or three twelve-penny nails in each tin pan, then pouring the warm milk on them. He believes that electricity has something to do with producing the result; he has tried many experiments before he hit upon this one, which he found to preserve the milk sweet for a longer time than any other plan tried by him.

THE PROSPECTS ON THE COAST .- We are included to believe that the unfavorable reports from the Sea Islands have been greatly exaggerated; and though the caterpillar has devastated many plantations, the injury is not complete. In some sections the worms have eaten the entire crop on one place, while the adjoining field has not been touched. This seeming partially has been gratefully received by the planters, as many of them will be enabled to save a portion of their crop, while a few, more fortunate, have been spared the attacks of their crawling foe.

We have seen a sample of Sea Island Cotton from the plantation of Mr. W. B. CUTTER, on John's Island. It is entirely free from insects. and the staple is of a superior quality. Mr. Cur-TER has been fortunate in his planting, and will soon reap the result of bis labors. The planters along the coast have had to contend with many adverse influences, and we are happy to learn that the damage resulting from rains, caterpillars, &c., will not be as large as was at first estimated.

KING STREET .- This street has been, within the memory of the oldest inhabitants, the great thoroughfare for the retail trade of the city, and as such has been patronized by those of the fair sex whose time is devoted to shopping and sightseeing. Aside from its advantages as a business centre, King street is the most fashionable promenade in the city, and the merchants whose stores are open upon this route have improved their property until the different establishments now vie with each other in their external appearance. A rusty, time-stained front on King street is an anomaly, for the merchant is aware of the necessity of presenting an attraction exterior, as it is often an inducement for the casual shopper to become a regular customer. During the summer months the stores on the fashionable portion of King street have been subjected to a series of improvements, and have emerged from the hands of the mechanics renovated and glistening with new paint. This process has been general, but in some instances it is more perceptible than in others. The stores in the lower part of the Victoria Range suffered considerably by the late fire; their fronts were blackened and smokestained, while the interior was damaged alike by fire and water. With commendable zeal, the proprictors instantly commenced to repair the injuries inflicted by the fire, and the stores that had suffered from this cause are now in a far better condition than before that event.

Mount Pleasant. The Congregational Church at this place was reopened for divine service on last Sunday. During the larger portion of the war that building was used as a military hospital, and soon after the evacuation of Charleston it was converted into a school-house for colored children The corporation, after several attempts, succeeded in recovering the building from the Freedman's Bureau about twelve months since. At that time they placed the Church under the pastoral charge of a reverend gentleman, but owing to their insbility to raise the sum of money the repairs required, he has not yet entered upon his work.

After consultation it was determined to re-open the church in its present condition, with such conveniencies for sitting, as could be furnished b the community. They were more desirous to de this inasmuch as they had the opportunity of availing themselves of the services of the Rev. Darma DuPre, one of the patriarchs of Haddrell's Pare in times agone, when causes and horse-boats per formed the office of transportation, now accomplished by Mr. McCornick's cloquit steamer.

Respected and beloved by the whole community his coming was deemed most favorable to resum ing service in the long closed temple, and he con sented most cheerfully to re-consecrate it to the service of Almighty God.

Mr. DrPRE preached two impressive sermon on Sunday to numerous and attentive congregations. At the close of the services he congratulated the community on the reopening of this house of worship, and exhorted them to keep it

Having begun the good work, the others of the church are in the mood to continue it, and the community are prepared to second their efforts. If need be, we are assured our own community will render some assistance to that impoverished society.

(Circular.)

To the Mechanics in Charleston: GENTLEMEN: I am receiving numerous applications from mechanics of all branches for information respecting their prospects in South Carolina. last twelve months, were published at length, it would Such of you as can advise me would be doing a probably or considered one of the most extraordinary great service to our city and State by communithe cooperation of both mechanics' societies of from individuals of almost every class, are, nevertheles Charleston. By the appointment of committees to iquire into and report upon this matter, I could put in possession of reliable views that would cercise a beneficial influence. Let me appeal to ur otten-tried patriousm for such aid as you can addy afford. It will be to the interest of all to have as many mechanics here as can be profitably imployed; but I am not desirous of inducing people to come here to be disappointed. Good faith will be our truest policy. Respectfully,

JOHN A. WAGENER, Commissioner Immigration.

THE HEAT .- Vesterday was one of the days that ried men's tempers. Notwithstanding the recent heavy rains the atmosphere was close and stifling, not a breath of air was stirring, nature seemed exhausted with her pluvial efforts and wished to repair the damage by drying the puddles as speedily as possible. Few persons ventured into the red hot streets without arming themselves with an umbrella, and endeavored to ward off the rays of the sun by every means in their power. Old Sol exulted in his strength and exerted himself to such an extent that long after he had retired his influence was felt. It was a day long to be remembered, and we trust that as we are not salamanders our powers of endurance may not again be put to so severe a test. September has the credit of closing the summer and inaugurating the cool breezes that are incidental to this season, but so far this character has not been maintained.

Mr. WM. MATTHIESSEN, whose large clothing establishment is kept next to the corner, has thoroughly refitted, reorganized and rejuvenated his store. The interior has been arranged for the fall trade, while the tion; has been treated to a fr sh corner of Clifford and Archdale streets, and is coat of cream-colored paint. Capt. B. W. McTu-REOUS, who is associated with Mr. MATTHIESSEN, from his long experience in this business, is able to influence trade from different sections of the country, and the firm of WM. MATTHIESSEN will soon have the same business notoriety that characterized its predecessor.

The store next to Mr. MATTHIESSEN has been thoroughly rebuilt, and is now occupied by Messrs. MELCHERS & MULLER as dry goods merchants. These gentlemen, finding their business increas ing, were compelled to accommodate their customers, and their move to their present location was one of necessity. The store was built expressly for the purpose, and is provided with all of the paraphernalia needed by first-class retaildry goods merchants.

Mr. Joseph Frank, who was among the sufferers by the late fire, has taken advantage of that opportunity to improve his establishment, and it is w one of the best arranged dry goods stores on the street. The goods are tastily displayed, and the stock composed of every article in the line. The last store in this range is occupied by the large clothing establishment of Messrs. G. Little & Co. These gentlemen are veterans in the business, their goods are well selected, and their numerous customers have no difficulty in making As to the case with the other stores of this range the hand of improvement is plainly visible, and the front presents a bewildering array of the most fashionable garments. These stores were all injured by the late fire but the damages have been promptly repaired, and the Victoria Range is now one of the most attractive points on the fashionable promenade. CANNED TURTLE.-The present age has been prolific in the invention of ways and means to preserve the good things of this life beyond their season. We have been treated to canned fruits season. We have been treated to canned fruits and meats of various kinds which, when opened are as fresh as when first prepared. It would seem that ingenuity had been exhausted, to invent like that needed but the appliance of a little dishes that needed but the appliance of a little heat to make them fit for the table, but the field next, the 13th, upon the evening of which day an eclipse of the moon will take place, after which is large, and new discoveries in the culinary art time we are inclined to hope for reasonable and delightful weather.

The scipse will commence at 37 minutes after 5

The scipse will commence at 37 minutes after 5 agents at every point, and are thus enabled to secure the first of the season. Heretofore the North has enjoyed a monoply ofthis business, but the Southerners are now aware of their resources, and will in future control the supply of many articles that were once considered Northern productions. Florida is the most prolific State in the Union; her climate is tropical, and fruits of every description grow in abundance, while her waters teem with life. The far-famed green turtle is a constant visitor on her coasts and many persons make their living by trapping and preparing these monsters of the deep for the market. The Keys and small islands near the peninsula are the favorits haunts of the turtle, and they are captured in numbers by parties who devote their time to this calling. Mr. E. TATNALL GREEN, of Cedar Keys, Fla., 128 prepared the turtle meat for transportation, by enclosing it in hermetically sealed jars. The meat is separated from the fat, all extraneous matter removed, and the edible portions of the turtle securely placed in the jars. Mr. N. Fehrenback has received a consignment of turtle meat prepared in this manner from Mr. GEEEN, and proposes to have it sampled to-day at his restaurant in Broad street. We have no doubt that the result will be satisfactory, and only hope that the demand will be so great as to induce our merchants to order a large supply from the Land of Flowers.

In introducing this new Power into the market, we would state that the following are some of the advantages possessed by the "LITTLE GIANT" over all other Horse powers:

1. Its great strength on account of being double-geared, which not only doubles the strength by dividing the strain on twice the number of teeth, but by gearing on both sides of the wheels it equalizes the wear on the shafts, and materially lessens the friction, enabling the horses to do much more work than with any other Power.

I have always recommended the Faber Polygrade Lead Pencils as the only pencils fitted for both ornamental and mathematical drawing; but, after a thorough trial of the American Polygrade Lead Pencils, manniactured by the American Lead Pencil Company, New York, I find them superior to any pencil in use, even-to the Faber or the old English Cumberland Lead Pencil, being a superior pencil for sketching, ornamental and mechanical drawing, and all the ordinary uses of a lead pencil.

mechanical pencils are very finely graded and have a very smooth lead; even the softest pencils hold the point well; they are all that can be desired in a pencil. It gives me great pleasure to be able to assure Americans that they will no longer be compelled to depend upon Germany or any other foreign market for pencils.
